Fort Lauderdale Chapter Chartered December 8, 1966

Volume 56 Number 07

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Compatriots and Friends,

Time for a break! We have our lunch meeting on July 19, 2025 and then we break until our next lunch meeting on September 13, 2025. HOWEVER. Our next Color Guard event is the welcome home of Honor Flight South Florida Flight # 36. This event is for all members, spouses and friends of the Chapter. Join us on Saturday, Sept. 6, 2025 by 8:00 p.m., Terminal 4, Spirit Airlines, FTL International Airport. Plan to stand with us as we welcome veterans and their guardians returning from their day trip to Washington D.C. Consider joining us at the after dinner where we frequent La Bamba's in the Harbor Shops off 17th Street Causeway and Cordova Road.

On the Color Guard - consider joining us as a guardsmen. You do not need to have an approved application to join. We can outfit you in militia attire for less than $500. The Color Guard is the face of the SAR when we are present as a unit at local, state and national events. Help promote the SAR and the values we represent by considering membership. Get something more out of your membership and join us at some of these non-luncheon events.

As we continue hearing about the many celebrations of the 250th anniversary planned for 2026, a brief update on the SAR Education Center and Museum seems timely. SAR is presently in the middle of the construction of the Museum's walls and building systems having a year-end targeted completion date. Then the project moves into a five-phase effort to build out the necessary millwork, and develop exhibits, graphics, and interactives. The "soft" opening remains on schedule for mid-2026. With this opening, stationary, fixed exhibits, including the display of over $3 million in artifacts will be in place. After the soft opening, interactive displays will be installed over a 42 month timeline – that is dependent on raising an additional $6 million - for a final completion planned for 2029. Since 2023, the Chapter, through member donations, has contributed 1776 dollars annually for the Museum Project. Those of you who may wish to make individual donations are encouraged to do so by visiting the SAR Foundation at www.sar.org.

I am also pleased to report that by the next meeting, we will have assisted 14 individuals in making application and obtaining membership with five current year approvals and six inductions, and the balance of nine current applicants expected to be approved by 2025 year end. Adjusting for year-end transfers, resignations or withdrawals, as well as additional newly approved applicants, we should see a change in net membership from our year beginning number of 80 to approximately 90 by year end.

For links to archival information on previously published newsletters, meeting minutes and other Chapter documents, visit us at www.fortlauderdale.sar.org.

I look forward to seeing you at our next meeting.

GENERAL MEMBERSHIP MEETING (cont'd)

Steve DePaul provided an update on the Liberty Tree Project. He said that he and the committee are working with Jim Clark for the dedication in early 2026 of a tree at the City of Tamarac's Veterans Park.

On the FLSSAR First Amphibious Assault Landing Memorial Project, Steve said that FLSSAR wants to move the date of the dedication to March 14, 2025 in order to avoid conflict with other statewide and national SAR events. The cost of the project has increased from $207,500 to $225,000 as costs for several unknowns are now being included. Fundraising is on schedule bringing in the $10,000+ target per month. He said that the website for the project should be fully functional in a week and there are links to multiple social media sites that promote the project and directs interested viewers to where they can go to make donations.

Also, Florida had 20 of 32 chapters reporting, which is 62.5% of our chapters. On a percentage basis, Florida was 11th in the nation, and qualified the FLSSAR for the President General's Streamer.

Mark said that for those Compatriots who have military or war time service, they can be listed on FLSSAR's Florida Veterans Battalion and also be recognized for their service by National on their Veteran's Corps Roster. He asked that those qualifying Compatriots provide him with a copy of their DD-214 form and he will submit the applications.

Bob Walsh gave the 250 Anniversary Recognition Report entitled, Why Bunker Hill? A Look at the Lead Up to Battle - June 17, 1775, which is also published in the June 2025 Newsletter.

On Youth Education Programs, in the absence of Kevin Shurte, Chuck Adams said that the only outstanding issue for the 2024-2025 program is how the Chapter's and State's first place winner in the Middle School Brochure Contest, Madeline Maragh, ranks at National. This will be decided in July 2025.

For 2025-2026, he said that two of the contests will be initiated in the last quarter of this year but the six others will not get going until the beginning of 2026. Tom Carpenter Jr said that it is especially important to bolster the public school system with programs that enhance the curriculum on the founding principles, and that he wished to help in any way possible for next year's program. Jeff Little agreed and said he, too, would help on this effort. Chuck added that member donations are critical to sustaining these programs.

Chuck Adams inducted Compatriot Jeffrey Zane Little. Steve DePaul presented him with the Rosette recognition lapel pin.

AMERICA 250
British Capture of Fort Ticonderoga
July 6, 1777
By Kevin Shurte

General John Burgoyne – Painted by Joshua Reynolds circa 1766

Built by the French in 1755 as Fort Carillon, Fort Ticonderoga was a strategic military stronghold near the confluence of lakes Champlain and George. Its proximity to these key waterways made it a coveted commercial and military target in Colonial America, changing hands numerous times among the French, British, and American forces.

Early in America's war for independence, a force under the command of Ethan Allen and Benedict Arnold stormed the fortress in a predawn raid. Their 4 A.M. assault on May 10, 1775, overwhelmed the sleeping and undermanned garrison, leading to the capture of the fort, its 48-men, over 100 cannons, and the commander's ample supply of rum. While Ethan Allen's Green Mountain Boys made off with the liquor, Colonel Henry Knox, Commander of the Continental Regiment of Artillery, absconded with 58 of its cannons, transporting them 300 miles overland to support the Siege of Boston. This first major victory significantly boosted American morale, and the fort remained in American hands until the British recaptured it in July of 1777.

Following Washington's defeat in New York, the British regained control of the Hudson River. Recognizing the strategic importance of the region's waterways, British General John Burgoyne proposed what would become the Campaign of 1777. His plan called for him to invade southward from Canada, capture Fort Ticonderoga, and move down the Hudson toward Albany while General Howe moved his men up the Hudson from New York. Together, they would capture Washington's forces in a pincer movement while severing New England from the southern colonies.

Burgoyne launched his campaign on June 17, 1777. Marching south from Saint John's, Canada with a force of 8,000 comprised of British regulars, Hessian mercenaries, American Loyalists, and Amerindians, Burgoyne reoccupied the abandoned redoubt at Crown Point on June 26 and prepared to besiege Fort Ticonderoga. Dividing his forces, Burgoyne sent the Hessians to contain the American troops at Mount Independence on the eastern shore of Lake Champlain while he advanced on Ticonderoga from the west.

Between July 2 and 4, British forces surrounded both garrisons by land and secured the high ground – Sugar Hill (also known as Mount Defiance), which the American commander, General Arthur St. Clair had declined to occupy due to its lack of fresh water. Upon finding Sugar Hill unsecured, British General William Philips remarked, "Where a goat can go, a man can go, and where a man can go, he can drag a gun" (Makos). British troops quickly cleared a road up the hillside, and by midday on July 5 had constructed an artillery battery armed with two twelve-pound cannons that loomed over Fort Ticonderoga and Mount Independence.

However, Britain's efforts had not gone unnoticed. Ticonderoga's defenders had observed their work on Mount Defiance and saw their campfires on the hilltop. Realizing that his position was untenable, St. Clair ordered a full and immediate retreat. That night, July 5-6, the sick, wounded, and camp followers were evacuated by boat on Lake Champlain, while the main body crossed the floating bridge to Mount Independence, and fled south toward Castleton in present-day Vermont.

The fall of Fort Ticonderoga stirred mixed reactions. St. Clair defended his retreat, saying that he had been outnumbered and had spared his army to fight another day. However, Americans, were shocked when they learned that St. Clair had surrendered the "Gibraltar of the North" without a fight. General Washington wrote that the "very extraordinary and sudden evacuation" was "altogether unaccountable"

(Schenawolf). In England, an elated King George III is said to have awakened his wife declaring, "I have beat them! I have beat all the Americans!" (Makos). The British and Hessians also marveled at their bloodless victory and the abundance of captured supplies but soon found their triumph short-lived. Within three months, they too would taste defeat just 75 miles south at the Battles of Saratoga.

SAR MEMBER PROFILE –BRADLEY M. MUELLER

Interviewed by Chuck Adams

Q. Ok Brad, tell us a little bit about yourself.

A. I was born in St. Louis, Missouri in 1952, but grew up in the neighboring suburb of Kirkwood. I was one of six children and a product of a combination of parochial and public school education graduating from Kirkwood Senior High School in 1971 (go Pioneers). I earned a Bachelor of Arts in Science from Webster University in 1986 and a Master of Arts in Anthropology from Washington University In St. Louis in 1990.

Q. What is/was your occupation?

A. Following my graduation in 1990 I spent 22 years employed as a contract Archaeologist for several universities, numerous private companies, and the Navajo Nation in Arizona -- work which has taken me to most of the United States. In 2012 I accepted a position with the Seminole Tribe of Florida as the Compliance Section Supervisor in their Tribal Historic Preservation Office (based on the Big Cypress Reservation). I retired from the Tribe in October 2023.

Q. Tell us about some of your recreational interests and/or hobbies.

A. Being part of the Boomer generation my childhood hobbies included stamp and coin collecting. Christmas time was always special since my Dad would bring out the Lionel train set. I still have those collections, which I add to from time to time, as well as the train set. As an adult, I have become the de facto Mueller family archivist/historian, serving as the repository of family photos, documents, and ephemera.

Q. How about your family?

A I had the extremely good fortune of meeting my future wife, Jennifer, in Junior College (ca. 1972). She and I both worked on the student newspaper. I had sense (luck?) enough not to scare her off, and we were married on Valentine's Day 1976. We have two grown children, Hadley, the oldest, and Eric. In 1999, or thereabouts, Jennifer accepted a position with a company based in Sunrise, Florida. The four of us have lived in Sunrise since that time. Both of our children work full-time.

Q. Who is your Patriot ancestor?

A. My Patriot ancestor is Joshua Hadley (1743-1815). As a Quaker, he furnished supplies in support of the troops in North Carolina.

Q. Tell us about why you want to join SAR and whether you have plans on how you may want to get more involved with carrying out the mission and programs of the SAR.

A. My interest in the SAR is an outgrowth of my wife's interest in her family's genealogy and her application and acceptance into the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR). As she was pursuing her research/application, she was able to document my connection to Joshua Hadley my Patriot ancestor. I am linked to the Hadley line through my mother. At this particular time in our history, I felt it important to acknowledge and support the goals of the original patriots. How I will do this within the SAR is still to be determined.

Thanks, Brad, for sharing.
